

East Coast Verizon outage has been fixed

COLT SHAW Staff Writer

A texting outage for Verizon Wireless customers Tuesday morning has been fixed, according to the company.

"Service is now fully restored," a Verizon spokesperson told Newsday.

"We experienced an issue impacting texting services for some customers this morning," he said. "Our engineers were able to identify and resolve the issue quickly."

Customers across the East Coast took to social media Tuesday to complain about trouble sending and receiving text messages.